SPARTANBURG, S.C. – For the fourth consecutive season, Samford is the preseason favorite to win the Southern Conference women's soccer title in voting of the league's 10 head coaches. The Bulldogs, who edged 2017 tournament champion UNCG by just one point in the poll, have won at least a share of the regular-season title in each of the last four seasons.

The coaches also selected an 11-member preseason all-conference team, with UNCG picking up a league-best three selections and Furman, Samford and Western Carolina claiming two each.

Coaches were not allowed to vote for their own teams or players in the balloting.

Samford, which garnered three first-place votes, finished with 75 points to top the poll for the fifth time in the last seven years. Defending tournament champion UNCG was second with 74 points despite earning five first-place votes, narrowly missing being the favorite for the first time since 2011. Furman, which tied with Samford for the regular-season title last year, finished third with 68 points and the remaining two first-place votes, and Western Carolina, which fell to UNCG in the tournament final a year ago, was picked fourth with 56 points.

Wofford's Hayley Younginer led the nation in scoring in 2017 and returns for the Terriers.
